Job Description Summary: ATMI Precast was originally founded as Automatic Teller Modules Inc. in 1990. This firm was designed to provide independent precast concrete Automatic Teller buildings for the retail banking markets. This initial venture was a natural transition into the retail bank building market. During the mid-1990s there was an increased demand for a product to provide a more efficient alternative to the metal steel buildings being utilized for manufacturing and distribution warehouses. Ultimately, ATMI Precast was instrumental in working with the Architectural, Developer and General Contractor communities to provide a load bearing insulated precast concrete wall panel that would be more durable, quick to erect, provide insulation, and eliminate perimeter steel structures. From the early 2000s, ATMI Precast has transformed and grown into a full service precast, expanding its architectural manufacturing competencies and providing a complete range of structural and architectural panels.

Job Description Summary: ExceleRate Tutoring Corps is an innovative program designed to provide the children daily small group, tutoring during the school day. ExceleRate tutors dedicate a year of their time to work with middle school students, or scholars as we prefer to call them. The tutors spend the day providing instruction, primarily in mathematics, to middle school scholars. We have found that this targeted, small group instruction results in amazing gains among the scholars. While the average American child is lucky to progress one year academically, a child engaged in ExceleRate Tutoring can achieve nearly double that growth. In fact, we have seen scholars demonstrate as much as three years growth in one school year. ExceleRate is about unlocking the potential in all of our children.
