Job Description Summary: ATMI Precast was originally founded as Automatic Teller Modules Inc. in 1990. This firm was designed to provide independent precast concrete Automatic Teller buildings for the retail banking markets. This initial venture was a natural transition into the retail bank building market. During the mid-1990s there was an increased demand for a product to provide a more efficient alternative to the metal steel buildings being utilized for manufacturing and distribution warehouses. Ultimately, ATMI Precast was instrumental in working with the Architectural, Developer and General Contractor communities to provide a load bearing insulated precast concrete wall panel that would be more durable, quicker to erect, provide insulation, and eliminate perimeter steel structures. From the early 2000s, ATMI Precast has transformed and grown into a full service precaster, expanding its architectural manufacturing competencies and providing a complete range of structural and architectural panels.
