Message from the Dean

Congratulations on your acceptance to the Northern Illinois University College of Law.

Having spent over twenty years serving in the private sector, in government, and at universities in the United States and internationally, I am proud to serve as Dean of one of the most dynamic and effective law schools in the nation in educating attorneys who make a difference in the lives of others.

Northern Law leads in public service, ranked among the top 10 law schools in the country for the percentage of our graduates who enter careers in public service. Our alums work as prosecutors, defense counsel, immigration lawyers, business counselors, civil rights lawyers, environmental attorneys, and in national, state, and local government.

We lead in preparing students to practice law, ranked in the top quarter nationally in bar exam preparation. We have designed our curriculum to emphasize fundamentals and reinforce success on the bar exam while also offering specialization to promote success in a competitive job market. This is why we have one of the best job placement rates in the state, with the National Association of Law Placement’s most recent report ranking us ahead of other Chicago-area law schools Loyola, DePaul, John Marshall, and Valparaiso.

Northern Law leads in experiential education, taking the study of law outside the classroom through live-practice clinics, externship placements and an innovative advanced field research course that connects students to projects in a legal field of their choice. Our four legal clinics in three cities represent clients in domestic violence, criminal law, foreclosure mediation, and health care, and we are hoping to develop new experiential opportunities in civil rights, immigration, environmental law, and business law.

With all of these advantages – and a tuition less than half of the state average, it is no wonder that National Jurist magazine has named Northern Law a Best Value Law School for three years in a row based on an assessment of employment, tuition, cost of living, and indebtedness upon graduation, with jobs for graduates as the most important factor.

Above all, at the NIU College of Law, our drive for excellence and innovation is grounded in our focus on student success and our tradition of impact in public service. I look forward to having you join us in the fall to become a part of that tradition.

Dr. Eric Dannenmaier
Dean and Professor of Law
Who is NIU College of Law?

“I am thankful I chose NIU because of the relationships I have developed here. I have a whole community of great people I can count on, and I’m confident that the bonds that I have forged will be lifelong.”
Keith Stiggers, Class of 2018

“I really enjoy the NIU program because of the smaller class sizes. Small class sizes create more learning opportunities for students to understand the material better and to create a more personal relationship with my professors and classmates.”
Michelle Aggacid, Class of 2019

“I love the small class sizes and brilliant professors. If anyone needs help with anything, at any time, a professor or faculty member is literally a few steps away and ready to help.”
Tiana Sarto, Class of 2018

“NIU places student success at the forefront of its educational mission. During my time at NIU I have learned from renowned educators who have invested in me and have provided me with the confidence to succeed.”
John McWard, Class of 2017

Specializing in an Area of Law

NIU College of Law is consistently recognized for its holistic approach to the training and development of successful lawyers through challenging coursework, skills training, experiential clinics, externships, pro-bono opportunities, and a variety of specialized certificate programs.

Certificate programs capitalize on our faculty’s expertise and provide focused training to heighten students’ visibility to prospective employers.

To earn a certificate, students must satisfy minimum grade and course requirements, with coursework selected from a mix of substantive courses, directed research opportunities, clinical programs, and externships devoted to the specific field of interest. Students who successfully complete the program receive a certificate notation on their law school transcripts.

Certificate Programs

Business Law Certificate
The Certificate in Business Law enables students to explore a broad range of business-related topics to begin a successful career as a business lawyer. The program provides students with a solid understanding of the basic principles of business and commercial law and the complex regulatory environment that business lawyers must navigate. The curriculum includes traditional focus on business organizations, securities regulation, and taxation, as well as special-interest topics such as intellectual property, bankruptcy and labor law.

Genevieve Tokić, Assistant Professor of Law
gtokic@niu.edu

“Obtaining the business law certificate provides students with a strong foundation for careers in business-related practice, and signals to potential employers a student’s interest in and familiarity with the subject matter.”

Civil Advocacy Certificate
Students who earn a Certificate in Civil Advocacy will have successfully completed coursework concentrated in civil litigation and alternative dispute resolution, as well as engaged in a hands-on practice experience in an externship or clinic. In the practice skills courses, students engage in simulations of all aspects of client representation, from initial client interview to jury trial. The practice experiences give them the opportunity to put those skills to use in representation of actual clients. Students who earn the Certificate in Civil Advocacy receive solid training in the fundamentals necessary to be a practice-ready law graduate.

David H. Taylor, Distinguished Teaching Professor of Law & Director of Skills Training
dtaylor@niu.edu

“Students who have earned the Civil Advocacy Certificate have the necessary foundation on which to build successful careers in the practice of general civil law or to begin to immerse themselves in specialty areas.”
Criminal Practice Certificate
The Certificate in Criminal Practice is available for students who wish to focus their legal coursework on understanding and addressing key issues confronting the American criminal justice system, as well as policy analysis and the contemporary decision-making models. This certificate is designed to expose students to litigation procedures within the criminal courts, and within corrections, security, and associated support agencies. The Certificate in Criminal Practice is designed help prepare students to be defense attorneys or prosecutors. Students will study the theory and practice of criminal law, criminal procedure, and criminal litigation. They will also gain real-world experience in the criminal justice system and begin to develop core professional competencies to be successful practitioners.

Daniel S. McConkie, Jr., Assistant Professor of Law
mcconkie@niu.edu

“Criminal law is not for the faint of heart.”

International Law Certificate
The Certificate in International Law provides students insight into how to conduct international business, understand how to tackle important public international issues and learn the inner workings of institutions such as the International Criminal Court and the World Trade Organization. The program also offers opportunities to expand and apply their knowledge through the study abroad program in France, in-class simulations, and other opportunities.

Morse Tan, Professor of Law
mtan1@niu.edu

“If it is even close to true that ‘almost all countries follow almost all international law almost all the time’ then international law matters tremendously in our widely interconnected world.”

Public Interest Law Certificate
The Certificate in Public Interest Law offers students significant educational exposure to the field of public interest law through rigorous coursework focusing on the legal structures and operations of national, state and local governments, as well as an examination of social issues affecting those who are disenfranchised and lack access to justice. The coursework provides students valuable firsthand experiences working with a number of our public service legal clinics in areas such as Health Advocacy, Criminal Defense, Civil Justice, and Foreclosure Mediation.

Michael Oswalt, Assistant Professor of Law
moswalt@niu.edu

“A law degree confers one of life’s greatest gifts: the power to serve others. The Certificate in Public Interest Law allows students to start that work right now.”
Clinical Programs

Our Mission: To provide hands-on learning opportunities for law students to advocate on behalf of real clients under the supervision of clinical faculty. Through the clinic’s commitment to social justice and providing free legal services, students’ advocacy and hard work can dramatically improve the life circumstances of people in need.

Whether representing an adult charged with a crime or a victim of domestic violence seeking an order of protection, participating students gain a better understanding of the legal system and a greater appreciation for the impact a lawyer can have on the lives of others.

Through these experiences, NIU College of Law helps build strong “holistically trained” lawyers prepared for any practice setting with built-in connection to lawyers and judges in the field while meeting needs in our community.

The clinic courses are taught by our clinical professors, all of whom are experienced attorneys.

Anita Maddali, Director of Clinics & Associate Professor of Law
amaddali@niu.edu

“Our clinical partnerships afford students essential practice-based experiences, while modeling for them the importance of using those skills to meaningfully assist those most vulnerable in our communities.”

Health Advocacy Clinic
The Health Advocacy Clinic is a joint venture between NIU College of Law, Hesed House – a homeless and recuperative shelter that houses the clinic in Aurora – and Aunt Martha’s Health Center – an organization supporting numerous child welfare and family services across multiple facilities in Illinois. Participating students and faculty join forces with medical professionals and social workers to provide free legal, medical and social services to clients with limited resources from across the region. Clinical faculty and students address legal issues impeding good health, specifically assisting clients with accessing life-stabilizing public benefits such as Social Security, Medicaid, Medicare and food stamps.

Colleen Boraca, Health Advocacy Clinic Director & Clinical Assistant Professor cboraca@niu.edu

“I was drawn to NIU Law for its commitment to public interest law. Teaching students how to represent and make a difference in the lives of real-world clients is everything I was looking for in my academic career.”
Foreclosure Mediation Clinic
This clinical program is part of a community engagement project to address the residential foreclosure crisis in Kane County, Illinois. The clinic is a joint effort between NIU College of Law, the Kane County Courts, Resolution Systems Institute – a non-profit organization dedicated to strengthening justice by enhancing court Alternative Dispute Resolution systems, Prairie State Legal Service – a provider of legal services to low-income families and groups, and several other community partners. Participating students and faculty work with homeowners facing foreclosure to advise them on their legal options, negotiate with lenders, identify possible mortgage modifications, and represent them during foreclosure mediation sessions.

Alan Boudreau, Visiting Clinical Assistant Professor
aboudreau@niu.edu

“Foreclosure can be incredibly frustrating for homeowners. By representing them, our students gain practical legal experience helping families navigate and identify options within the foreclosure process.”

Civil Justice Clinic
Students and clinical faculty represent vulnerable residents of Winnebago County, Illinois. The clinic prioritizes the needs of low-income senior citizens and survivors of domestic violence, sexual assault, and stalking. Students develop transactional experience by drafting estate planning documents and litigation experience by representing clients in civil matters involving orders of protection, domestic violence related family law, small claims, and probate issues.

Wendy Hinton Vaughn, Clinical Associate Professor
wvaughn@niu.edu

“Students in our clinics serve a diverse population and are exposed to multiple issues challenging their clients, many of whom live in poverty. Through clinical experience, students develop cultural awareness and sensitivity, empathy and professionalism.”

Criminal Defense Clinic
Students in the Criminal Defense Clinic represent adults charged with criminal offenses. The offenses are often misdemeanor offenses or major traffic offenses. In addition, the clinic represents individuals in petitioning for removal from the sex offender registry as a result of juvenile sex offense adjudications. The clinic provides a holistic approach to representation in addressing underlying causes of criminal behavior like mental health or substance abuse issues.

Paul Cain, Clinical Professor
pcain@niu.edu

“Criminal defendants are among those least regarded in society, and even in the legal system. Students have the opportunity to vigorously defend the Constitutional rights of defendants, protect them from the power of the State, and see that they obtain justice.”
New Experiential Opportunities

At NIU College of Law, we are working to expand experiential offerings with initiatives in business law and entrepreneurial counseling, environmental and resource development law, and immigration law. These new programs will help to assure that the public interest is served by supporting enterprise competitiveness and sustainable growth, and will continue to serve the needs of the most vulnerable among us. And like our clinics, these new experiential offerings will provide great learning opportunities for students in developing hands-on practice skills necessary for a successful career in law. We hope to have more information about these programs in the near future.

Advanced Field Research

Advanced field research projects are a law course credit mechanism being developed to engage students in real-life public policy experiences through individualized projects that illuminate issues or public concern and advance public policy ideas. Students work outside the classroom under the direct supervision of a faculty member to conduct factual investigations, interviews, and legal research aimed at 1) identifying or advancing potential solutions to a legal or public policy problem; or 2) examining the relevance of legal doctrine to a legal or public policy problem. The course emphasizes the deployment of doctrinal learning through experiential projects and offers a flexible mechanism for engaging the educational and research capabilities of the NIU College of Law with business, policy, and community leaders.
Career Opportunities for NIU College of Law Graduates

Most of our graduates take jobs that require a JD and bar passage, including positions as lawyers in firms and prosecutors’ or defenders’ offices. The latest published employment statistics show that NIU College of Law ranks among the top 10 law schools in the country in the percentage of students who graduate to careers in government and public service, and over 90 of our alums are members of the judiciary. Many graduates also choose to pursue careers as leaders in government, business, and with public interest organizations where the JD degree is not required, but provides an advantage. NIU College of Law will assist you if you choose one of these “JD advantage” careers, including careers in public service.

In addition to coursework, support for bar passage, pro bono service, and clinical and experiential placements, NIU College of Law offers the services of professionals who will assist you directly with your career goals. Our career services office does more than simply post jobs; they also:

➢ Introduce you to potential employers through networking and other in-person connections.
➢ Arrange employer interviews on campus and at NIU facilities in Chicago and other satellite campuses.
➢ Match first-year students with attorney mentors.
➢ Review your resume and help you prepare professional correspondence.
➢ Offer direct, in-person counseling sessions that will help you clarify your goals, prepare you for interviews, and personalize your job search.
➢ Publish a weekly bulletin with details on networking events, job postings, and career guidance.

Our support for your career doesn’t end at graduation. NIU College of Law continues to support our alumni who are thinking about changing jobs, making a move, or simply looking for professional mentoring. Among our many initiatives, the career services office has partnered with the Illinois Supreme Court Commission on Professionalism to develop a Lawyer-to-Lawyer mentoring program for alumni attorneys.

Careers by the Numbers

Employment data compiled and reported to the American Bar Association (ABA) for the class of 2015 show that ten months following graduation, 85.15% of the NIU Law Class of 2015 was employed. Graduates in 2015 found jobs in ➢ Private Practice: 51.16%

➢ Government & Public Interest: 34.88%
➢ Business & Industry: 11.63%
➢ Education: 2.33%
Our employment outcomes are competitive with Illinois law schools, and a comparison of the 2015 “all job” ABA reports for the nine Illinois law schools shows that NIU College of Law’s employment data are stronger than the other two state universities as well as DePaul and John Marshall. The following is a comparison of the 2015 ABA reports for all nine Illinois law schools.

1. University of Chicago 98.47%
2. Northwestern 94.44%
3. Chicago-Kent 91.30%
4. NIU 89.80%
5. Loyola 87.74%
6. University of Illinois 86.67%
7. DePaul 85.60%
8. John Marshall 85.09%
9. Southern Illinois University 84.69%

We place graduates throughout Illinois and the country, although the city where the single largest percentage of our graduates go on to practice is Chicago. Over 22% of NIU College of Law’s Class of 2015, for example, obtained positions in Chicago. It is important to note that these favorable employment rates at NIU College of Law come at a significantly lower tuition (and lower cost of living) than schools located in the center of Chicago. This means for most students a much lower debt at graduation, and the flexibility to take a wider range of jobs that fulfill your individual goals and interests.

Of course, no law school can or should assures employment outcomes. But in a challenging market, students are well advised to choose a school that supports their goals through career-relevant coursework, experiential learning opportunities, and career services support that is adapted to individual student needs.

“Involvement in student organizations was crucial to my success in law school and beyond! It was a great opportunity to showcase my leadership skills and meet like-minded people who were passionate about the same aspects of the law that I am.”

Financial Aid
Admitted Students should complete and submit the Free Application for Financial Student Aid at www.fafsa.gov. You will need your federal income tax return and W-2 forms to complete the FAFSA. Be certain to select NIU (School Code 001737) as a recipient of your FAFSA. Should you decide to attend NIU Law, you will receive more detailed instructions about how to apply for financial aid in the spring. A request to have a student's loan eligibility reviewed can be made by contacting the Student Financial Aid Office (815-753-1395).

Types of Aid

Scholarships: Scholarships and grants through NIU Law provide full or partial tuition waivers. Scholarships are based on LSAT scores and GPAs, as well as on residency, special interests, or demonstrated leadership qualities.

Federal Direct Loans: Direct Subsidized and Unsubsidized Loans are low interest loans for students that are borrowed directly through the U.S. Department of Education. To apply for a Direct Student Loan, a student must complete the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA) at www.fafsa.gov, and complete a Master Promissory Note and Entrance Counseling at www.studentloans.gov.

Graduate students may borrow up to $20,500 per year in Federal Stafford Loans. The current interest rate for these loans is 5.31% annually, and a 1.073% loan fee is deducted at disbursement. Borrowers have a Federal Direct Loan Lifetime Aggregate Maximum limit of $138,500. As of July 1, 2012, there are no longer any subsidized Direct Stafford Loans available to graduate or law students: as soon as your loan is disbursed, interest begins to accrue. After you graduate, these loans have a six-month grace period before repayment begins. A Federal Direct Loan has forbearance and deferment options, may be consolidated, may be paid back under several different repayment plans, and may be eligible for forgiveness under the Public Service Loan Forgiveness Program.

Graduate PLUS Loans for Law Students: A Graduate PLUS loan is federally guaranteed, interest accrues while you are in school, and repayment begins following graduation. The interest rate is fixed at 6.31% annually, and a 4.276% loan fee is deducted from the disbursement. If you do not have adverse credit, you may secure aid to cover the cost of attendance by applying for Graduate PLUS Loans.

Applicants must fill out a brief application at StudentLoans.gov. A Federal Student ID (FSA ID) is required for the student to apply for the PLUS Loan, as well as to sign a Master Promissory Note. The Direct PLUS Loan request consists of four sections: personal information, school and loan information, review application, and credit check. If your application is declined, you may be able to re-apply after you have settled your debts or have obtained a cosigner. Additionally, you must complete a Master Promissory Note (MPN) for your loans. A Graduate PLUS loan has forbearance and deferment options, may be consolidated, may be paid back under several different repayment plans, and may be eligible for forgiveness under the Public Service Loan Forgiveness Program.
Private Loans: Private loans are available from private lenders and offer additional financial assistance to you if you have exhausted all other sources of funding for your education. These programs are meant to supplement federal and state aid when the Cost of Attendance is not fully covered by these programs.
